*School Slices

Arrival at Mount Everett — any school-day morning.

*(This yearbook features "free writings" from English classes; they are identifed by dates preceding the writings — i. e., Sep. 10. Since each free writing is a fragment or "slice" of our lives here at Mount Everett, the feature appearing on pages 4 through 11 is entitled "School Slices.")

Sep. 10 — School is an undertaking too long of duration, strain, and pain for all kids across the states. Ever since I was five, I have been going to school! This is my thirteenth straight year in school and probably there will be a lot more after I graduate. It is depressing getting up at seven-o'clock in the morning, going to school until 2:35 p.m., often staying after, and then doing homework! School is an unpaid, full-time job. (I wish I could get fired!) — M.B.

Congratulations Seniors

Oct. 12 - I was so mad this morning. I was looking for my pass for about fifteen minutes. I almost missed the bus. I got to school, and when I opened my locker, my pass was there. I was so mad. - L.W.

Oct. 30 — Well, even though I was sure it wouldn't happen it did. Wish I knew where I left that blasted thing. If you should happen to see an 80-page, blue-covered, spiral-bound notebook walking by, please ask it to return home. — J.R.

Sep. 26 — Listening to everyone entering English class, you may wonder if it is a crazy house you're in. Sebastian singing something about a snake, Michael being called various vegetables, Doreen and June bemoaning not seeing each other even when they are in the same class, Phillip yelling, "Hi, Pattie!" when she is but five feet away. Someone is coming in late while David is whispering with John about whatever. Meanwhile, the rest of the class is basically quiet except for Pattie who is trying to find a topic to write about. One person is snuffling as she has for the last few days. — D.Z.

With three securely-gripped notebooks and one absent (?) notebook: Cheryl Walther, Merry Germain, Mike Ovitt, and Gary Warner.

Sep. 13 — Yesterday in gym we tried to see how many sit-ups we could do in one minute. I am thirteen; my birthday is next month. A thirteen-year-old girl is supposed to do fifteen sit-ups. I did thirty-three in one minute. I was glad because it was over twice as many as required. Now, thanks to that, I can hardly walk. I could not bend down this morning, and those stairs are killers. That was practice. Tomorrow I have to do it again to get points. I'll have to do other things too. I don't know if I'll be able to. I want to but my legs say "no"! — C.G.

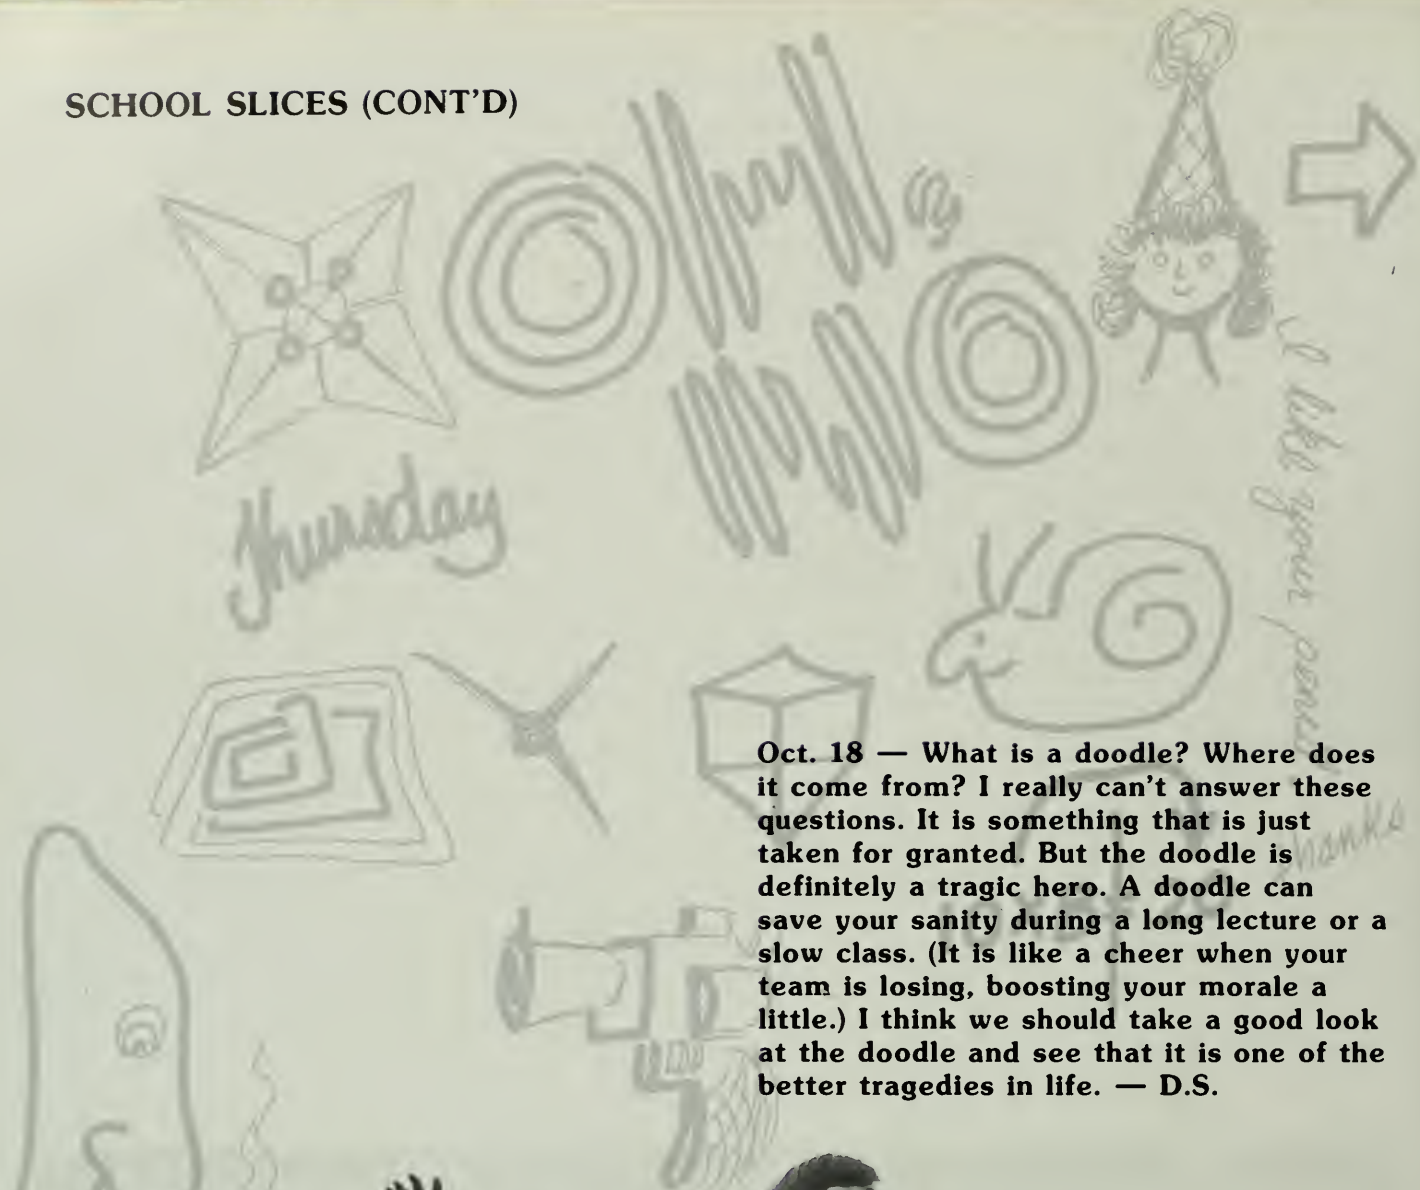
Oct. 3 — The school clock with its many simple numbers against the bright white background rules our days. Its second hand travels around at its slow even pace. It cares not of us who are late, early, or on time, as the disc, with its metallic hands, stares at us blindly in class. — E.C.



Oct. 18 — What is a doodle? Where does it come from? I really can't answer these questions. It is something that is just taken for granted. But the doodle is definitely a tragic hero. A doodle can save your sanity during a long lecture or a slow class. (It is like a cheer when your team is losing, boosting your morale a little.) I think we should take a good look at the doodle and see that it is one of the better tragedies in life. — D.S.

Sep. 10 — A couple days ago I was thinking how it would be fun to go to a football game again, but then I remembered that we don't have football anymore. I feel bad about that. Even though we didn't have a very good team, it was still fun to go and watch and to cheer our team on. It seems that a football game was one of the times when school spirit was shown most. — S.G.

END OF SCHOOL SLICES

People And What We Do

Sep. 14 — Mount Everett has changed a lot. It seems that we are learning and respecting a lot more than we used to. The graduating classes of the earlier 70's had it easier than we have it now. -L.W.
Sep.10 — At the beginning of the school year, students were told that the smoking area by Room 21 had been closed. Now smoking students have to go to the opposite end of the school. — Y.D.
Sep. 13 — Today is speech day in English class, and it seems that everyone is extremely nervous — especially me. I am absolutely terrified. I have always been for public speaking. All I can say is I hope I do well. Ughh . . . — K.B.

Nov. 1 — I gave a friend permission to put some of her stuff in my locker. The stuff has begun to build up. It does not bother me, but I wonder why she has so much stuff in school with no purpose to it. — B.C.
Oct. 7 — Gazing out the window, I could see buses arriving. As I re-concentrated on what was going on in class, something out there caught my eye. It was one bus backing smack into another. — J.S.

"Today Is Our Last First Day"

SEPTEMBER 7, 1979 — Last Thursday a friend of mine walked up to me and said, "Well, today is our last first day here." And ever since then I've been thinking that yesterday was our last second day and today is our last third day. Just think, I'm counting the days already. I never thought that I'd want to graduate from high school because then I'd be out on my own, but now I'm really looking forward to it. Now that most of us have our licences, there is more freedom. — PC

NOVEMBER 6 — Being a senior is really an experience. It's a lot like getting old and dying — a person doesn't really believe it'll happen. Every once in a while I'll have to stop in my tracks and look around just to make sure that it's all really happening. It's a refreshing feeling to know that there's another beginning, another place to start something again, and it's right up ahead. Most of my life I've been in school, and now it's all mine — my life and my decisions. — JB

NOVEMBER 8 — The Class of '80 is "The Class with Class." I don't understand how people can, in their junior year, all of a sudden become seniors. I know I wouldn't want to be a part of any other class but that

by Patience Cary

of 1980. I would have felt out of place if I had graduated last year. I've been with most of the people in my class for years. Our class is like a family of 95. I'm proud to belong to "The Class with Class." — MG

DECEMBER 21 — In the Senior Class there are all different types, and I must say that I'm proud to be part of this (unusual) class. Most of the seniors are finally realizing that they are seniors and that they should act like seniors. They actually have grown up. Writing on the bathroom walls, skipping class, smoking in the bathrooms, beating up little kids or one another have just kind of faded away from them. They have actually become less rowdie. They will soon feel the end-of-school shakes. Though seniors may be a bit confused now and act a little awkward, they will soon be tomorrow's adults in the big wide world. — PW

Are Administrators Necessary?

Mr. Thomas A. Consolati
Superintendent

Mr. George J. Helmrich
District Business Manager

Mr. Raymond F. Chamberland, Jr.
Principal/Asst. Supervising Principal
Grades 5-12

In the view of many students, administrators are people with easy jobs; it seems that all they have to do is sit in their offices, read mail that comes in, make telephone calls to who-knows-who, and now and then stroll around the corridors and yell at students who are trying to liven things up.

This, however, is a very uninformed and narrow view. The administrators are responsible for the framework and operation of our entire school. Theirs is a world of thousands of details that must be considered and decided upon in light of policies the school committee has set down and laws of our state and country. They are responsible for the hiring of faculty, the direction of the entire curriculum, the evaluation of all school programs and services, the establishment of school policies for faculty, students, and personnel, the manipulation of schedules of all kinds — buses, classes, faculty assignments, rooms, clean-up, maintenance, meetings, sports, and student activities, and many others — so that things "mesh" and run smoothly. Pressures mount for administrators because so many things can possibly demand immediate attention all at once — and frequently do. In between anticipated tasks which must be taken care of are numerous unanticipated problems — such as accidents and disciplinary problems which individual teachers cannot alone handle. Also, administrators are burdened by the need to look ahead, anticipate needs, and work out ways of providing for the community, the faculty, and the students the best possible school and services that can be managed.

Our administrators are very hard-working, competent people, and this is a fact. One administrator, for example, regularly gets up at 4:00 A. M. to plan his day's routine and work through pressing tasks before going to school; it is the one time in his day that he is not interrupted by someone needing something.

Considering the burden they carry, it is surprising and remarkable that our administrators remain as buoyant and cheerful as they are.

The Day After ... By K. McDonnell

The day after a substitute. Back to work. You've fallen behind, but you are now ready to start again. Raise your pen, draw the paper. Move the index and middle finger around. Try to keep it up, but also do it well. Although yesterday they've had a rest, you must bring them back to life. Ready begin, write, write, write. — KMcD

Personnel . . . ? by Dave Sadera

"Personnel" refers to a group of people who are constantly performing all kinds of tasks for us, the student body - feeding us, making alterations in the school buildings, preparing duplicated materials, typing, keeping our records, keeping up with custodial needs, and providing medical aid when needed. It is easy to see how important they are.

CURRICULUM

Preparation . . .

by Mark Makuc

Mt. Everett has developed a curriculum that is highly preparatory for either careers or college. Curriculum can be shaped to fit any goals, specific or general. To become a carpenter, one can take building structures. There is also the collaborative which gives students the chance to learn about other careers, such as health care that would not be otherwise readily available. For the student planning to attend college, there are many possible classes, including Advanced Placement courses, which give the student college credit if an exam is passed. This year, for the first time, students have been allowed to register for courses in an "arena," which means the students must make their own personal schedules with help from the guidance office. In this way, one can prepare for almost any career or college.

Sep. 27 — I have never felt this nervous in my whole life. I feel as if my insides are turning and turning. I know I'm going to fail this test. I studied so hard and I know the words, but when I sit down and start doing the test my mind is going to raise a complete blank. I'm going to forget everything that I learned. That will definitely be dire! (Not to mention deleterious!) — K.C.

Oct. 5 — All that I can hear is the noise of people talking. Happy, serious, or excited voices are directed at their neighbors. Then, without anything being said, all the people in the room start writing on the yellow paper that they had already picked up when they entered their English class. — P.C.

Oct. 24- I hate being absent. Yesterday, I couldn't come to school because I was sick. Today, I came back and found that everyone was light-years ahead of me, especially in Calculus. It was as if I had skipped a grade in the middle of the year. I'm beginning to think that it's a conspiracy against me. On the days I'm absent, all the teachers give the other students all the important formulas and information, so that when I come back, I am so confused that I get behind in my work. I am so far behind that I can't make it all up, and so I get bad grades. I don't know what to do about it. — D.R.

Band Pride by Patricia Wright

Nov. 16 — Yesterday in band as I was sitting listening to the band play, I felt very proud of them. I play the bells and sit way up in the back; my music is not very hard, and most of it is a series of rests. So I have a chance to appreciate how good they are. Occasionally Mr. Wartella asks the trumpets if they think he's a magician casting spells up in front. Not everyone plays excellent all the time, but a majority of the time you can tell the long hours of practice and dedication the band has put into its work.

PLAY

"Our Town": A Change . . .

Nov. 20-The 1979 Senior Class play was a change. We had a new director (Mrs. Gillian Siedle), we performed from the other side of the stage (into the gym), and — most important — we had a different type of play: Our Town by Thornton Wilder. It was a play that struck on a serious note with serious themes. The play was a good experience and had the usual last minute rush. Each person suffered from a bad case of butterflies before the play, but the experience was rewarding and memorable.

Prom

The "Secret Of Life" Is . . . A Successful

The Junior-Senior Prom is one event that is looked forward to from the first day of school. Boys worry about who to invite, and girls worry about whether they will be invited or not. The 1979 prom was held at Searles Castle. The atmosphere was terrific. The beauty of the Castle set the surroundings for what was to be the most successful prom in past years. The band from Boston, Formations, kept dancers on their feet until midnight. The Class of 1980 had a prom to be remembered for a long time to come. Ask the seniors — they will tell you so themselves.

BASEBALL

Bright Moments And Dark

We had a good baseball team this year with seniors Doug Blume, Rick Boardman, Frank Reeves, and others, but our 4-20 record reflects more of the dark experiences of the season than the bright. However, it was a satisfying season for the baseball men since some personal and team records were set — such as Rick Boardman's seven home runs.

Southern Berkshire

X-Country: Number One By Sebastian Esposito

The Mt. Everett Cross-Country team finished the season with an outstanding 12 and 1 record in scheduled meets, sweeping South County with ease. The season was highlighted with five shutout victories and an exciting victory over the Mounties of Mount Greylock. The Eagles, who were in contention for the Berkshire County Championship, lost to Greylock, but ran to a decisive 3rd place out of 22 teams at the Western Mass. Championship meet.

FIELD HOCKEY

Getting It Together By Kelly Consolini

Oct. 17 — Our field hockey team finally got the act together yesterday and played a tough game against Pittsfield. Though we couldn't overpower them to take a win, we tied them 0-0. It was a sweaty, rough game. Besides going up and down the field approximately 800 times, there were various rappings of shins, balls in mouths, and sticks and bodies all over the ground. I think our teams became definite enemies by the end of the game.

Feb. 7 — Basketball is just a game of hoop to some. They take it for granted. Our teams try to play the game to its fullest. No matter how well we win or how bad we lose, we Eagles have spirit. Because that's our nature. If we are disgraced to all or come back with a victory, the team and fans never give up. After all, its just a game of hoop.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Just Call Us Trouble

Last year we said, "Wait until those other teams see the team we put on the floor next year!" So they waited and when they saw us, they knew they had trouble on their schedule. We beat Monument, Pittsfield, McCann, and Mt. Greylock, but the other league teams managed to get by us. Next year we will give them even more trouble than this. Just wait.

WRESTLING

What It Takes by Diane Ziegler

Jan. 8 — The sport of wrestling is unique because of the physical strength, endurance, and courage it takes to participate well. The physical strength and stamina needed to win in this sport is probably much more than for any of the other sports; it is important to know the holds and moves, but frequently it is the person who has the better endurance who wins. The courage it takes to participate in the sport of wrestling is also great; a wrestler has to believe, at all times, that his opponent can be beaten.

CHEERLEADING

Put To The Test By Elissa Champigny

Feb. 11 — Cheerleaders at Mount Everett are put to the test. They have spirit through it all. It's hard to believe, but they do. Ask any cheerleader when a game is lost, and she'll say, "Wait until next game." But never be around when their team wins. It's ecstatic. Like I said, they're put to the test.

EPILOGUE

This twenty-fifth edition of Aurigan pays special tribute to Mr. George J. Helmrich who has been business manager for the Southern Berkshire Regional School District during the past twenty-five years. Well-known for his remarkable precision, efficiency, and competence, Mr. Helmrich plans to retire at the end of the 1979-80 school year.
